Join the Dinner & Conversation to Support and Strengthen Child Care in South Carolina

Come share your experience and expertise with investors, leadership, and industry stakeholders around the challenges and strengths of child care providers in our state. Our work looks to support the role of quality child care for children and families reliant upon child care.

The event includes conversations with key members of the SC General Assembly, City and Corporate leadership about the important role of child care in economic development. We will also share information the School Readiness Tax Credit -- a policy support for quality-rated child care in Louisiana and Nebraska -- and ask for your feedback on how we can build a similar approach for South Carolina child care providers.

Participate in an interactive and engaging workshop for DSS training credit on building a quality rated center with Judie Jerald, Senior Advisor of Early Childhood Education with the national Save the Children Action Network and former National Director of the Early Head Start Program at the Office of Head Start.

Please join us -- Your experience, guidance, and feedback is a key part of building impactful and supportive policies for the child care industry.
